RAPID TRANSIT FOR FLATBUSII.

The Brooklyn and Brighton Beach Railroad Company made a practical beginning vesterday in the long talked of project of building a connection between its surface line from Franklin and Atlantic to Coney Island, connecting the former terminal with the Kings County Elevated road in Fulton-An application was prepared to be made to the Board of Aldermen to-day to approve by a two-thirds vote of the change of the northerly terminus of the route of the railroad to Fulton-st., near Franktin ave., there to connect with the Kings County road. Fermission was also asked to lower the grade of the road two feet at Park Place, and to rulee it one foot rolled over the ship should not earry them overat Prospect Place, and to construct the road over all streets lying within the lines of the right of way, now occupied by it, and the route as proposed to be altered at the northerly terminus. It is pro-posed to build the extension of the road over private were paper.

ME TRIED TO BREAK IN A NUNNERY.

Charles Brady, of No. 97 North Fifth-st., was arraigned in the Lee Avenue Police Court yesterday and amilted to fall for ten days on a charge of exication. Brady was arrested by Policeman Edwards, of the Fifth Precinct, on Sunday evening they rolled harmessly by the bark's quarter. while trying to force an entrance to the home of the Sisters of St. Joseph, in North Flifth-st., near Driggs-ave. Brady had waited in the neighborhood until Father Martin Carroll, poster of the Church of St. Vincent de Paul, left the house. Brady then St. Vincent de Paul, left the house. Brady then rang the front door bell, and when one of the nums asked him from a window what was wanted Brady said that he wanted to get into the house, and declared that if the door was not at once opened he would break it in. When Brady made the remarks Policeman Edwards was passing the house and took him to the station. On the way Brady attacked the officer with a pair of shears, and it was necessary to club him severely. When arraigned in court Lrady said that he wanted to get into the house in order to sign the piedge.

A BIG MACARONI EATING MATCH.

There was a big macaroni eating match in a Sackett-st. restaurant on Monday afternoon. A Thirdave, barber named Joseph Minchazza challenged Albert Casano, a barber, No. 178 Broadway, New-York, to eat macaroni on a wager of $25 and the expenses. The challenge was accepted, and about twenty-five Italians gathered to see the contest. Two lots of macaroni, each weighing three and one-half pounds. were cooked. Each filled an immense dish, and weighed seven pounds each. The combatants sat down to the contest and stowed away the paste at a lively rate. Each was encouraged by his friends by shouts and applause. It was soon seen, however, that Casano was more than a match for his opponent. that Casano was more than a match for his opponent. Minchazza was forced to give up the contest when he had enten two and one-half pounds dry and five pounds cooked, but Casano stowed away the whole dishful topped off with thirty-five raw orsters and a bottle of wine, and went out with seven pounds of macaroni in his stemach and $50 in his pocket.

The ship was at once put before the wind and seudded under hare poles. At midnight the seas were so heavy that Captain Dexter felt sure she would founder. As a last resort he sent a man forward with a can of oil, and the experiment of using oil on the waves was tried with wonderful success. The bowl of the forward closet pipe was stuffed with oakum and the oil was allowed to trickle slowly into the sea. It saved the bark, for oil began to spread. Sickle.

weary have not east anchor in this lary in many a day, and the bark's present berth, off the Statue of Liberty, is the first comfortable spot which the Yessel has been in since she sailed from Gottenborg. Sweden, seventy-eight days ago. She sailed in ball last, consigned to Snow & Burgess, of this port, and fair, winds blew her through the Cattenat and safely by the rocky coast of northern Scotland, till she was well out at sea. Then came contrary winds and baffling weather, but still the sky was stormless and the sca was smooth.

TRIBUNE EXTRAS.

44 pages of the charming "Home and Society" articles from The Sunday Tribune. A delightful number. "OUR CHAUNCEY." .. - Our Channey" is Chauncey M. Depew, who is certainly acknowledged to be one of the foremost of American erators-brilliant, sparkling, sound and sagacious. His after-diamer specches are both the models and the despair of his rivals. "Our Chauncey" is a poom, by Isane H. Bromley, illustrated profusely and comically by Day Beard and C. D. Gibson, two of the best pen-and-interests in New-York City. It is a delicious piece of fun, and it is moreover thoroughly possessed of a spirit of genful and sincere admiration for its eloquent subject. It is doubtful whether Mr. Bromley has ever
